SYNOPSIS

Young Sima Yi is a timid and cautious scholar. He has eagle-like sharp eyes and wolfish ambition. Once he turned around and looked at Cao Cao, and his fate has been tied to the Cao Family since then. He helps Cao Pi pass every test of Cao Cao with his resources and thus makes it possible for Cao Pi to become a crown prince. He dedicates himself to helping Cao Pi become a benevolent founder of Wei Kingdom, and contributes tremendously to the stability and prosperity of Wei by pioneering a new political order, supporting privileged families of scholar-officials, and controlling the imperial clans. On the verge of his death, Cao Pi, Emperor Wendi of Wei, appoints Sima Yi as the minister to assist Emperor Mingdi Cao Rui in ruling the country. Sima Yi begins to assist the emperor who turned out to be a more demanding and suspicious monarch. In the imperial court, he acts carefully like treading on thin ice; in the battlefield, he fights against the army of Shu Kingdom in Qishan Mountains for six times. In his twilight years, he is again entrusted with the emperor's young heir and thus becomes the minister to assist the junior emperor Cao Fang. As a result, his relationship with the powerful minister Cao Shuang is like water and fire. By accumulating his power secretly and suffering all disgraces and insults, Sima Yi eventually defeats Cao Shuang, thus ending the civil strife in Wei.

Iga Maecka, the main character, is a twice divorced, unemployed mother of two children with no higher education. She always tells the truth. The woman has a keen sense of perception, a tender core, and a sharp tongue, none of which serve her well when dealing with others. Her world is turned upside down when she meets Marcin Kaszuba, a young and talented lawyer who views life as an endless party. The two have an interesting relationship that has resulted in a series of funny incidents. Is it possible to fall in love with someone from such a different world? Can love overcome all the trials and tribulations? The series shows that a normal girl can become a stronger advocate than many others.

Sylwia is a character with whom the audience can easily relate. She is a real human being who makes mistakes but never gives up. Sylwia is uncomfortable with subtle schemes that help the winners ascend the social ladder, so she flees to the countryside, where she discovers a world that mirrors the truth she has fled. Sylwia, a young vet who has left the big city behind, is reactive against a culture where cynical careerists determine the rules of the game.

However, she does not give up this time. Her perseverance and determination transform the village that has become her new home. She is up against a political clique that includes customs officials, the head of local government, and a local finance magnate. The old order in the village is shattered by her energy. We may sympathize with her naivety or admire her ability to see things critically. The direction she follows will eventually lead her to a bit of love.

To raise children, one must be mature, and to understand them, one must remain youthful. These are the major dilemmas confronting the main characters, who regularly meet at a local restaurant to encourage and help each other solve their problems. They're all at different stages of life and come from different backgrounds. All of the characters emphasize family bonds, but they frequently have to contend with generational differences. The Nowakowski family is the subject of the series: Jola, Marek, and their two teenage children. They are acquainted with two quirky couples who have had their ups and downs, as well as Marek's brother Borys, who made a fortune selling coffee but then returned to Poland, making a brash entry into the Nowakowski family's and their friends' lives.

Gong Woo-jin (Yang Se-jong) is a 30-year-old single man who works as a set designer. Due to a trauma he experienced 13 years ago, he does not want to have a relationship with others. When Woo Seo-ri (Shin Hye-sun) was 17, she fell into a coma. Thirteen years later, she wakes up from her coma, but she is now 30-years-old. Gong Woo-jin and Woo Seo-ri get involved with each other and fall in love. Gong Woo-jin caused an accident when he was 17 years old, or so he believes. He feels guilt and goes away to study in Germany carrying this guilt with him into adulthood. As a result, he becomes a very strange adult. Woo Seo-ri wakes up in hospital confused to find that she has aged 13 years overnight. She last remembers being 17 years old, wearing her friend No Soo-mi's jacket since she forgot to pick up her own. She is alone and abandoned by relatives. Deciding to search for her aunt and uncle she goes to the last place she remembers. By a twist of fate, they sold the house to Woo-jin's father, who is now letting his adult son stay there while he's back in Korea. The plot follows Seo-ri's search for her relatives; the budding romances between Seo-ri and Woo-jin, but also Yoo Chan and the doctor, who both develop ill-fated feelings for her; Woo-jin's transformation from a surly and closed-off set designer to someone who dares to love again; Yoo Chan's rowing championships; and their strange housekeeper Jennifer (Ye Ji-won), who ends up being tied up in the accident thanks to her past as well.

Today, languages and cultures are disappearing rapidly as globalization has an increasing impact on everything. The documentary series aims to present geographies where different life stories come together, through a poetic text and a visual structure. The people who are the starting point of these stories will be the narrators of the episodes. In such a period, communities that can preserve their cultural heritage or create their own culture have become more attractive. You will have the opportunity to see a rich visual palette, such as the white villages of Siberia and the red hot deserts of Mali.

SYNOPSIS

A sound is heard from the depth of the soil as the archaeology exploration of the Shahre Sukhte goes on. While following the archaeologists to document the explorations, the film in parallel seeks out the sound coming from the depths of the soil and steps deep in history to accompany the ancient citizens of the city. The film depicts the wonderful city of "Shahre Sukhte" (The Burnt City) in Zabol in Iran, which was home to one of the highest civilizations at the dawn of history lasting for over 1400 years. In this city was no central government or leadership in Shahr-e-Sukhte. The government was administered by a group that was matriarchal, meaning that power was in the hands of women. It may be for this reason that we witness no trace of violence and war in this city. Something that the world today desperately needs.

Why do the ancients perceive Okinoshima as divine? Okinoshima rises from the sea between Japan and the Korean Peninsula. For centuries, the Japanese people have looked toward Okinoshima with respect. It was, and still is, the site of national religious rituals. More than 80,000 artifacts, every single one of them a designated national treasure, have been found on the island. Okinoshima became a World Heritage site in July 2017. However, entry to the island is still forbidden. A lone priest watches over the island. Nothing can be taken off from Okinoshima, and anything seen or heard on the island must stay on the island. Photographer and author Shinya Fujiwara's fascination with Okinoshima and his artistic sense provide a unique perspective into the provenance of prayer on this island full of mystery.

The only Holocaust story with a happy ending. The recent documentary movie 'Turkish Passport' is the unlikely story of Turkish diplomats who helped save tens of thousands of lives by issuing passports to Jews during World War II. The new documentary contains extensive research and an impressive production, which hits the right nerves, especially in these trying times. Just when one thinks that every story about the Holocaust has already been told, an unlikely tale of hope, optimism and heroism, or "the only Holocaust story with a happy ending," enters our lives. "Turkish Passport" is an unusual story about the Holocaust; it is unusual simply by having the word "Turkish" in its title, since Turkey was a neutral country during WW II. The documentary, directed by former advertisement director Burak Cem Arliel and written by Deniz Yeşilgün and Gökhan Zincir, is a surprising recount of Turkish diplomats in France and other European countries who had saved the lives of tens of thousands of Jews by issuing them Turkish passports.

The long journey documentary tells one of the forgotten pages of Anatolian history, a very striking migration story. The "American dream" seen all over the world began to be seen in Anatolia, especially Harput and Kiyi in the early 1900s. Thousands of Turks, along with their Greek neighbors, started to dream of America. To do this, they had to first introduce Anatolia from one place to another. Some Mersin, some Trabzon, some Samsun, and some Istanbul to reach the port cities on foot and then sail on a new adventure.

The ships came from Istanbul to France's Le Havre or Marseille ports, and from there they set off to America. According to the records of the American population archive, in the first quarter of 1900, nearly 50,000 Muslims migrated from Anatolia to America. And like all other immigrants, there was a door to pass when they arrived in America. Ellis Island was the famous gate, which immigrants called the golden door.

For the first time, a documentary presents the 14-year resistance war of the Chinese people against the fascist Japanese regime from a global perspective and on an international landscape. The documentary includes extensive use of historical data. Japan's invasion of Northeast China in 1931 and total aggression against China in 1937 changed people's perception that World War II began with the European theater or the Pearl Harbor attack.

Seven years. Six million displaced people. The biggest humanitarian emergency of our time. The Syrian refugee crisis remains a huge problem for global consciousness as statistics, as photographs, as a bargaining chip in international politics. These are stories of sadness, fear, beauty, and surprises from a young woman raising a family that is not hers, to a seventeen-year-old concreter, an all-women filmmaking class, a boy who finds meaning through football, and more. It shines a much-needed light on the human stories at the centre of the global debate and gives a voice to the Syrian refugees in Jordan.

SYNOPSIS

The documentary presents the phenomenon of Vladimir Putin in Russia. The man has been very popular for the past 15 years despite the collapse of the ruble, a rise in prices, and the recent isolation of Russia in Europe. The more criticized he is by the Western world, the higher his ratings are. According to polls conducted by the end of 2014, he is still supported by 86% of Russians. That is why some sociologists call it a phenomenon. The author of the documentary is trying to investigate this surprising news by visiting a number of places. She talks with a number of different people who express their opinions on Putin and contemporary Russia. In her journeys, she visits far places in terms of distance and human mentalities, such as Moscow, Crimea, and the so-called 'Glubinka' that is the Russian back of beyond.

SYNOPSIS

The film tells the story of a tragic yet reciprocal love of a young German aristocrat to a Polish butler. The social and moral differences are the reason why the feeling, which brought them together, has no chance of existence. A complicated history of people of three nations living in the northern region of Poland – Poles, Kashubian, and German, forms the background of the main story. Their lives are shown in a broad perspective over the period of 25 years, from 1920 until 1945. At the same time, the Second Republic of Poland is formed and many German estates are situated on the Polish side of the border. This situation not only generates numerous conflicts, but it also gives excellent ground for the birth of Nazism. The dramatic events of the war and an equally strong trauma caused by the entry of Soviet troops permanently cause a personal tragedy of the main characters – Marita von Krauss and Mateusz Kroll. Will their love survive in the worst moments in the history of Europe?

SYNOPSIS

It is a shocking picture of the last few months in a military prison for Polish officers before the Katyn massacre. Wasilij Zarubin, a Soviet secret service officer, after a failed mission in Germany is about to be executed but, in the face of a sudden outbreak of WWII, Stalin gives him a new task: his new mission is to enlist Polish officers from Kozielsk, Starobielsk, and Ostaszków camps to the Soviet Army. Zarubin's methods are cynical. By abusing his position in a treacherous way, he tries to antagonize officers, extract crucial information and encourage them to cooperate with Soviet communists. A success of Zarubin's mission depends on the attitudes of Polish officers' towards his manipulations. This TV movie depicts the horrific situation of Polish officers living under pressure in captivity. The screenplay is based on true, evidenced story.

SYNOPSIS

It is a story of parents of a cursed soldier*, who died in 1946, told from a perspective of their 17-year-old grandson Janek. Department of Security digs up his body four times to make sure that the enemy of the state is truly dead. The mother cannot bear the humiliation, she steals away the coffin with the body, forces the husband to travel to Paclawska Calvary to bury their son again. The journey is full of dramatic events. Travellers are joined by Jurgen, a German fugitive from a prisoner-of-war camp. The film, which is written into the dramatic history of the postwar Poland, still remains universal in its story – a struggle of two parents to regain their dignity and balance in life after losing their child.

*cursed soldiers – The end of the struggle of WWII in Europe did not mean peace for all. Thousands of people joined the partisan movements. The scale of their resistance resulted in a regular war being fought on numerous territories of Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, and Ukraine up to the mid-50s. Today, we call those people the Forgotten Soldiers, Forest Brothers or insurgents.

SYNOPSIS

The film tells the story of Jan Banaś, a famous right-wing midfielder of Polish national team, who had a Polish-German origin and whose goal let Poland take the lead in the match against England in Chorzów in 1973. The film is a remarkable experience for the fans of football, but it is also a well-told story of an uneasy path to glory, its ups and downs. Jan Banaś grows up in Silesia. From his childhood, his greatest passion is football, and his greatest rival, a devoted friend, Ginter. As time passes by, friends' competition transfers from the backyard to the stadiums of Silesian football clubs: Polonia Bytom and Górnik Zabrze. However, this is not the end of their rivalry. True emotions emerge when beautiful Marlena shows up in the life of both sport stars. When they both court her, Jan and Ginter quickly discover that there are no rules in the game of love. When a serious injury ends Ginter's career and in the same time brings Banaś closer to joining Górski's Eagles team, the main character faces a difficult choice that will determine the rest of his life. From now on, a chance to participate in the Olympic Games and the Football World Cup can be irreversibly lost.

Cook It Up! is a three-lap studio-based cooking competition show. The aim of the competition is to not only cook well, but also to guess what your partner is cooking. There are two kitchens, a waiting area, and a dining hall in the studios. During the cooking, one host will be in charge and one chef will assist the competitors. Four couples compete in the first round of the competition. After each lap, the couple with the lowest points is eliminated, leaving two couples as finalists in the third lap. The first round is general food awareness, and the couple with the lowest score is disqualified. Following that, one partner selects a word card and attempts to explain it to their partner using only kitchenware. They win points and stop elimination if they guess correctly. The men go to the kitchen in the third round and choose cards from four Fortune Bowls. Each one will have a main ingredient, a spice, or a cooking method written on it, and the men will have to make a dish using each one! Their partners will serve as judges, grading them on taste, appearance, and cleanliness in the kitchen.

"He who builds a mosque in the way of Allah, Allah Almighty will build a house for him in paradise." So said Abu Bakr, the first Islamic caliph. Mosques have served as the religious, cultural, and communal focal points of Islam throughout its history.

We'll learn about the many different mosques located around the world, as well as the cultural aspects of both the mosques and the countries that host them. We will also learn about the history surrounding them and the characteristics of Islam. They serve as schools, community centers, philanthropic institutions, and even hospitals and law courts, in addition to being houses of worship. They are locations where worldly distinctions such as class, income, prestige, and ethnicity fade away, and everyone becomes equal in the eyes of Allah Almighty.

SYNOPSIS

In this animation, the life of Prophet Noah (Peace and Blessings Be Upon Him) and the breaking points in his life have carefully reflected the audience. Let's learn together the call to Allah Almighty, the mockery of his people with him, then the revelation of building the ship to the flood and his situation with his son until his death. All the prophets warn us that another Judgment is about to come – the one that will come by fire. But Noah's sign also shows that Allah Almighty will offer us mercy along with His Judgment. For this mercy to be shown to us, we need to search for the 'ship' which is its only door.

SYNOPSIS

The prophets, the messengers of Allah Almighty, were sent to warn the society they live in. In the beginning, many prophets, including Muhammad (Peace and Blessings Be Upon Him), faced many difficulties throughout their lives. However, none of them gave up their struggle and continued to call people to religion. The series tells the stories found in the Prophet's Hadiths, which cover the basis for the virtuous life. It's told through the eyes of a humble shepherd who never gave up on his quest for knowledge. He looks into the Hadiths of the Prophet and learns from each message they pertain with every episode addressing a new idea and characters.

The stories of the Holy Qur'an are stories told in the Qur'an by Allah Almighty about the circumstances of previous nations, prophecies, and accidents.

The Quran contained many details from the past and history of previous nations, their values and flaws. It is to help them set moral standards for others and to give them a picture of what they were saying so that they could think about it and change their minds, works, and ethics.

The project consists of eight separate historical stories taken from the Holy Qur'an. Each story is told in four related episodes, after which we move on to the next story.
